NAYS—1.

Trach,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1690, entitled:

An Act to authorize the insertion in the charter of any corporation for the support of public worship or for any like religious purposes either originally or by amendment of a provision that the rector or minister chosen by such corporation to take charge of the religious services by it maintained shall during his continuance in said office of rector or minister be ex-officio president of the vestry board of trustees board of directors or governing body by whatever name designated of such corporation and to validate similar provisions in the charters of such corporations heretofore granted

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BUNGARD. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House I think this bill should receive very careful consideration and serious thought. I view it from the standpoint of the clergy, as a minister myself, and I want to ask this House to do a good thing for the ministry of this Commonwealth and vote this bill down unanimously.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker prior to 1874 a number of Episcopal Churches in Pennsylvania applied to Pennsylvania for special charters which permitted the minister in charge to be elected president ex officio of the Board of Vestry. The constitutional convention of 1874 prevented special charters, and this simply enables this to be done in Episcopal churches in the State of Pennsylvania. It does not interfere in anyway with other denomination. The Episcopal church of course, being incorporated, the other denominations are not incorporate and this bill does not in any way affect them, and I hope this House will vote aye.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

An Act to amend section one of an act entitled "An Act regulating the method and procedure in the erection of line or partition fences" approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred sixty-two)

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that a fence law that has given satisfaction since 1862 and is working fairly well in all sections of the Commonwealth could very well be let alone.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1633, entitled:

An Act to repeal the first section of an act approved the second day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy entitled "An Act extending the provisions of the act of the eleventh of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six relative to the fees of county treasurers in Luzerne and Clearfield to the County of Clinton" insofar as it relates to the fees of the county treasurer of Clinton county on mercantile licenses

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Rich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICH. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, the title of this bill mentions Luzerne and Clearfield counties and it looks as though it was special legislation I would like to know if this bill has been advertised the proper length of time in Clinton county.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, yes sir. it was advertised for four weeks.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Clinton and ask what effect it has and how it relates to Luzerne and Clearfield counties.

Mr. RICH. It simply refers to Luzerne and Clearfield county. This tax was imposed on Clinton county as it had previously been placed on Luzerne and Clearfield counties; and now the merchants of Clinton county protest against paying two dollars to the Treasurer every time they pay their mercantile tax and they wish to be relieved of that burden. All other counties except Clearfield and Luzerne pay but fifty cents, as I understand, and they desire to be rid of this one dollar and a half extra fee. This bill has been advertised.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see how this can be constitutional. Having been a bill passed through including Luzerne, Clearfield and Clinton it must evidently have been special legislation at that time. I have occasion to try to separate a bill of this kind during this session and I could not repeal a part of the bill without repealing the whole thing. I cannot see how this can be constitutional without repealing this bill entirely.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, Clinton county, as stated before was added to these other two counties and now we are simply taking it off these two counties. It passed before the Constitution also.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1587 (Senate Bill No. 799), entitled:

A Joint Resolution to provide for the participation of the Second Regiment Infantry National Guard of Pennsylvania in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to be held at San Francisco California in nineteen hundred and fifteen to celebrate the completion and opening of the Panama Canal and the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean and providing that such officers and enlisted men of said regiment as participate in said exposition shall be paid the same per diem pay of officers and men and such allowances in connection with the annual encampment as are paid from State funds which they would receive at the annual encampment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that the regiment that is to be taken to the Penama Exposition, the officers are to be paid their salaries, as well as the men. This seems to me to be going the limit. They should be glad enough to get the trip without getting their salaries.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is this, that the bill which was just under consideration was an appropriation bill requiring 138 votes. Less than a quorum voted.

The SPEAKER. The consitutional quorum of the House is 104 votes.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, is not this one of the bills that requires a two-thirds majority?

The SPEAKER. It is.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, therefore a quorum on this bill, I take it, would be 138 votes.

The SPEAKER. The constitutional majority of the House is 104.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Does the Speaker declare my point or order not well taken?

The SPEAKER. The Chair declares the point of order not well taken.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I bow to the decision of the Chair.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. McKEE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I object to this, and hope the Senate will not sustain that position. This bill has been before the Senate since the twelfth of March, it has been in committee and out of committee and it has been amended to meet the League of Third Class Cities, I believe, with one or two exceptions, and I trust that this motion will not prevail. If they are going to beat the bill, let them vote no, and defeat it.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, the Senator from Beaver states that this bill has been amended to meet the League of Third Class Cities. This bill, on its face, shows just exactly the same insincerity you find in every civil service proposition. It provides that it shall become effective on the first day of July, 1916. Why? Because the people who are interested in the League of Thrid Class Cities will be candidates for re-election this year. They want, therefore, not that the men who are employed now shall be under the protection of civil service, but it is their desire that they shall be cut loose and be a part of politics, of political parties, in order that they may bring about the success of their election in the coming Fall and then if they do not succeed, then they want the men to have the opportunity.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will state for the benefit of the Senator from Dauphin that the bill is not under consideration, the question is on postponement and you cannot go into the merits of the bill.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, but on a motion to postpone anything relative to postponement is germane and I am assigning the reasons why it should be postponed.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will state for the benefit of the Senator from Dauphin, that on a motion to postpone you cannot go into the merits of the bill, the question is whether or not the consideration of the bill should be postponed.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, inasmuch as the Senator has made the statement in regard to whether the bill should become operative—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would state that on a motion to postpone for the present you cannot go into the merits of the bill. The question before the Senate is solely whether or not consideration of the bill shall be postponed.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, is it fair that the Senate should be misled—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I insist upon my point of order. If the Senator from Beaver is entitled to argue the merits of the bill, then I insist that I am not bound by the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I only desire to say that I concur fully in the statement made by the Senator from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. The question is upon the motion to postpone consideration of this bill for the present.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A division was called for,

Whereupon,

Fifteen Senators having voted in the affirmative, and twenty-two Senators having voted in the negative, the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I only desire to repeat that this is the usual insincere effort to procure the passage of a civil service bill. As I said a few moments ago, there is no effort to make this bill effective at this time, but they endeavor to make it effective on the first day of July, 1916, and that for the very evident purpose of enabling the people who are now in office and seeking re-election, and I might say, throughout this Commonwealth almost unanimously seeking a re-election, they want and ask this Senate to enact into law a civil service bill which shall not become effective until the first day of July, 1916, in order that they may keep in office until after they have submitted themselves to the people at the polls, with the right of having every policeman and every fireman in their respective districts going out and being active at the polls. If they want to be sincere, why do not they have civil service so that every man may come under the protection of it? But on the question, generally, of civil service, what do you have? What do you have in the recent developments in the National Government? In one of the revenue districts of this Commonwealth, we have now some two or three or four hundred men who have been relieved from duty on the ground that there is no work for them to do, and yet after they are off for a few weeks, persons other than the men who had been in the service for years are assigned to duty, and the old persons are not taken back. It simply resolves itself, Mr. President, into the question of men who are now in office, endeavoring to have the assistance of the police and firemen to procure their re-election, and then, after the election has taken place, if they are re-elected, they want to take the hands of their successors in order that the police and fireman may be taken out of politics; and you may take civil service as you will, in the nation, state or any municipality, and there has never been a time when, after men have been in office for some time, if there is a change in administration, that if a man takes a hand in politics, if it suits his employer he keeps him; if it does not suit his employer he finds an excuse why he should be dismissed. And, furthermore, when the man is endeavoring to have one of his employes, supposed to be protected by civil service, do something, if the man elects not to do it, then, while he does not discharge him for insubordination, he finds some reason in the near future, after he refuses to take the orders from his boss, to go out and find a reason why he should be dismissed for the "good of the service." Mr. President, I ask that the Senate vote down this bill.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I want to thank the Senator from Dauphin for making my speech for me. It is very seldom, if ever that he makes a misstatement. I know that he has been reading an old bill. This bill becomes operative forthwith, and not a year hence. The primary object of the bill is simply this: in cities of the first class in the Commonwealth, they have civil service; in cities of the second class of this Commonwealth they have a civil service. Now, if it is good for cities of the first and second classes, surely, sir, it is good for cities of the third class. If you want to eliminate the so-called civil service law from cities of the first and second class, then I do not believe cities of the third class would be so insistent on it. We had a demonstration a few days ago, where in the matter twenty-seven cities out of twenty-eight third class cities had asked for certain amendments, and we saw on the floor of this Senate one city defeating it. I trust that such will not be the case in this particular. This matter makes for efficiency, and only for efficiency. If a man errs, he can be discharged. There is no salary to it. The Commission does the examining, it is absolutely in control of the Council. There is no provision in it for paying a salary to the Secretary unless done so by authority of Council, and there isn't a thing in the world in this bill that the cities of the third class should not have. They want it; they ought to have it; and there is no reason in the world why it should be opposed. Any man who opposes this bill opposes efficiency, and I trust that this Senate will vote aye on this bill.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I feel that I ought to say a few words on this bill. As a representative of cities of the third class through this Commonwealth. I have been somewhat identified with the passage of the law with reference to that classification. In the first place we may dispose of one argument of the learned Senator from Dauphin County that this act does not go into operation until 1916. I have the bill before me and it becomes effective forthwith. Any statement to the contrary notwithstanding. That, I think, disposes of that, because by the reading of the bill any person can ascertain whether that is true or not. We representatives in this Senate from cities of the third class have in general gone along with the representatives of the cities of the first and second classes in legislation that they desired, because we thought they knew that they wanted and we were willing to co-operate with them, and now we ask a return of the favor when we representatives of the cities of the third class in this Commonwealth ask for the passage of this bill. We want a little reciprocity. We want your help and your assistance and we think we are entitled to it. I hear the words "boss" and "politician." I care nothing about that. They have no effect on me, but what we want, if we can secure it, is the good legislation in this bill. It has been in process of incubation since the first day of February; it has been considered very extensively and very carefully by all of the members of the House of Representatives. There was a very large hearing in the House Committee and men came from all over this State and asked that a bill of this sort could be passed. It was only a question of how that sentiment could be formulated and after a great deal of care bestowed upon this bill was launched in this shape and it has come over to us from the House having been introduced by a man whom we all know and who has been an intelligent and faithful servitor of the people in his capacity as chairman of Municipal Affairs of the House.

Now, Mr. President, the object, the basis, upon which this bill rests is this: that there may be efficient government in cities of the third class and that men who go into the fire department, the electrical department and into the engineer corps may have a sense of permanency in their employment, and not take the position as a mere aside, to be followed for a few months or a few years and then be turned out. It is efficiency that we are after and it is efficiency that we want and we do not know how we can get it in any other way. The shift in political changes that go on in our communities says to the man in the police department: "You have got to walk," it says to the man in the electrical department, "You may lose your position," and it says to the man in another department, "You have to step down." If they are mentally and physically capable and qualified to discharge the duties of the offices to which they are appointed then I say "Let them serve." This bill secures them and I hope the members of this Senate will vote in favor of it.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, this bill was in the Committee on Judiciary Special and amended out on the proposition that the bill was not to go into effect until July 1, 1916. Now I don't know that the bill was in any other committee and I learned for the first time that that amendment has been stricken out. How that came about I would like to know and unless that is satisfactorily explained to me I shall vote against the bill.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I think I can explain that to the Senator very specifically. On Monday evening I showed him two amendments, one to correct a word in the fifth paragraph that had been omitted and the other amendment, which you will find in line 12 on top of the page, "who have had a total service of two years and who hold." Those two amendments were shown to the Senator from Schuylkill on Monday evening and he said "all right, go ahead and put them in."

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, the Senator surely could not construe that to mean that I would agree to strike the other amendment out.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I also made known to him at that particular time that these amendments would make the bill become operative forthwith.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. CATLIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I wish to inquire the purpose of recommitting this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, certainly, the purpose of the motion is to get it into my committee so that the people who are vitally interested may go over the bill with care and see how it affects them and what penalties may be visited upon them under the provisions of the bill.

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I wish to state for the information of the Senate that this bill was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General on April 6, and was carefully considered by that committee and reported as committed. After that, on first reading it was committed to the Committee on Finance and reported out as committed, and again committed to the Committee on Finance and reported out. In other words, this bill has been considered by the Judiciary General Committee and twice by the Committee on Finance and there is no reason at all why the bill should be committed to another committee. It has been carefully considered and I believe the only purpose is to kill the bill in committee. If it is to be killed let it be voted down in the Senate and not in this way. This motion should not prevail.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, this bill to the best of my knowledge has not been twice reported from the Committee on Finance. It was reported once. If it has been reported twice it was without my knowledge. The Committee on Finance would like to have further consideration of the matter, if it is desired to refer it there, but I am perfectly willing to have it referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A division was called for,

Whereupon,

Twenty Senators having voted "aye" and sixteen Senators having voted "no," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 829 (House Bill No 942), entitled:

An Act amending an act entitled "A Further Supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine approved the first day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine

Whereas Under the act of July twenty-fifth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen relating to the preparation for publication of the Statutes at Large there was appropriated the sum of ten thousand dollars and the approval of the Governor was withheld in the sum of five thousand dollars because of insufficiency of State revenue and

Whereas Notwithstanding the fact that there was no corresponding reduction of the amount of work required the commission and the editor have steadily proceeded with their work and have prepared the manuscript of the Statutes at Large from the year one thousand eight hundred to one thousand eight hundred and fourteen inclusive as required by said act divided into four volumes and have delivered to the State Printer three of said volumes and will deliver the fourth volume on or before June first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen

Whereas The amount of the original appropriation of ten thousand dollars as fixed in the act of twenty-fifth July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen was based upon a careful estimate of the value and cost of said labor as therein specified and it would be inequitable to expect the commission all of whom with the exception of the editor are serving without compensation to conduct to a conclusion a work of such magnitude with a fund reduced one-half

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, May 12, 1915.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following Prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou hast endowed us with a life that is individual and that Thou hast made each of us a trustee over his life. Thou hast given us the plan of life, the laws of life and the material of life, and may we build according to Thy plans. May we be obedient to Thy law and use the material which Thou hast given us and then when these lives are given back to Thee and when the account shall be rendered may it be said of each life as it was said of another:

'Tis strung and turned for endless years
And formed by power Divine,
To sound in God the Father's ears
No other name but Thine.

And may we hear the blessed benediction "Well done, good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make three ruler over many things." We ask for the Redeemer's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when, on motion of Mr. Ostrander the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 7 of to-day's calendar, Bills on Final Passage Postponed, House Bill No. 1069.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1069, entitled:

An Act requiring railroads to remove grade crossings and providing penalties

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RINN. Mr. Speaker, it is my purpose not to address you at length on the merits of this bill; it needs absolutely no defense. You are familiar with its provisions; you know that it is one of the most progressive measures that has come before the House during this session. You must realize that we are living in a progressive age and there is not a member of this House who dares go before his constituents and ask for their support with a record of having cast his vote against a measure the purpose of which is the conservation of human life. That, gentlemen, is the only object of this bill. The history of grade crossings of Pennsylvania is written in human blood. Gentlemen, no other agency has a record so tragic, so horrible, as the deadly grade crossing, yet the great State of Pennsylvania, with all her bosted civilization, has failed to join her sister Commonwealth in enacting a law which will cheat the deadly grade crossing of its prey in years to come. Just a word to those who may be disposed to vote against this bill. Who can tell who will be the next victim of the grade crossing in your respective districts? Let each remember, reflect for a moment, the victim may be one bound to you by the ties of kinship or personal friendship. (At this point the gentlemen from Lehigh appealed to the Chair for order in the House).

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill should have fair consideration from the members of this House. It is the first and only bill introduced by the member from Lehigh and he has given it considerable attention and is quite wrought up over it. I think that the members of the House should give him fair play and a fair hearing and if they decide that it is a bill with merit they may vote for it, and if not, they may oppose the bill at the proper time.

Mr. RINN. Mr. Speaker, should the victim be one bound to you thus, what will be your thoughts when you gaze upon his lifeless form? Yes, gentlemen, what will be your thoughts when you will do that What will be your answer to the question of that relentless, infernal monitor when the wee small voice which taunts us when we act wrongfully when it asks "What did you do to make impossible the fate of your departed friend? What did you do to make it impossible?" Such a moment may never come and I hope that it will never come to us. Gentlemen, if you believe that the slaughtering should go on, vote against this bill; if you believe in ending the grade crossings reign of terror vote for this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken,

The SPEAKER. This roll will be verified.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. STEIN offered the following motion which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Moved by Mr. Stein, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the vote by which House Bill No. 1180, File Folio 8071, entitled:

An Act to prohibit in cities of the second class the construction or erection of public or community vaults crypts or mausoleums (that is to say vaults crypts or mausoleums or parts of mausoleums intended for sale to the public) for the interment of human bodies where the building containing such vaults crypts or mausoleums is wholly or partially above the surface of the ground was defeated on final passage be reconsidered.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to explain to my friends in the House precisely the matter that is now being voted upon. You gentlemen will remember that about three weeks ago this House passed, I believe with a unanimous vote, a bill to prohibit the erection in cities of the second class of these community vaults or community mausoleums. I might say to you gentlemen that there are only two cities affected by this bill. Unfortunately, there was another bill extending all over the State here which, of course, is not now under consideration. The bill now before you for a vote applies only to the Cities of Pittsburgh and Scranton, and I am authorized to say to you not only on behalf of our City of Pittsburgh, but also, I believe, on behalf of the City of Scranton, that both these cities, the only ones in interest, strongly desire the passage of this bill. Unless this bill is passed, gentlemen, I can say to you of my own knowledge that the best residential section in our city will be completely ruined. If this community mausoleum or, as it is familiarly known, this cold storage for the dead, is erected in the City of Pittsburgh it will cause a property damage of probably twenty million dollars to the community and the residents of that district strongly ask and the City of Pittsburgh joins in with them in the request that you gentlemen kindly pass this bill as it now stands.

To repeat, the bill was passed about three weeks ago but there was a slight error in the language; a line had been left out through some oversight. It was nothing more than what you might call a typographical error and the bill after passing the House and passing the Senate had to be recalled from the Governor for amendment. The amendment cosnisted of the few words which had been left out by mistake. The bill as it now stands is precisely the same as it was the day it passed with an unanimous vote and I therefore ask you to kindly pass the bill now as you did so generously and unanimously three weeks ago. And I again ask every member of the House to vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. E. E. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

An Act making an appropriation for the purpose of reimbursing the several counties of the Commonwealth for moneys alleged to have been erroneously deducted from sums due them from the Commonwealth on account of amounts due the Commonwealth from townships, boroughs or incorporated towns within such counties as the share of such townships boroughs or incorporated towns in the cost of the improvement and maintenance of State aid highways therein; and prescribing the duties of the State Treasurer with reference thereto.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11.30 A. M. having arrived, the Chair lays before the House the special order fixed for that hour.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act relating to the holding of a Constitutional convention providing for the submission of the question of holding such a convention to the electors regulating the time and manner of nominating and electing delegates fixing their number and compensation providing for the organization and constitution of the convention defining its powers providing for the publication of the constitution proposed by the convention and for its submission to the electors and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of this act

Said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was first introduced I at that time felt that it would require, when it came up for your consideration, some rather extended discussion, but in view of the lateness of the session and as every man in this House understands its provisions, as well as its need at this time for Pennsylvania's purposes, I do not think any extended discussion would avail anything except the taking of time. But I desire particularly to call the attention of the members of this House to the fact that perhaps those best qualified to judge in all this Commonwealth have said that this is the most urgent need of this State at this time.

A very distinguished jurist, and I refer to the Honorable Robert von Moschzisker, has said that nothing else is so much needed in Pennsylvania as a redraft of the organic law. No less a lawyer than the Honorable Francis Shunk Brown, the attorney general of this State, has said that not so much else is needed in Pennsylvania as a new Constitution. Michael J. Ryan, a lawyer of no little talent in Philadelphia, and who has made a special study of municipal problems, has said that a new Constitution is needed and needed badly at this time.

In 1874 there went into effect in this State the fundamental law called the Constitution, and since that time every session of the Legislature, with but very few exceptions, has been proposing resolutions proposing amendments to that Constitution. Why? Because since 1874 our population has doubled. In that day there were no telephones. The first telephone demonstration being had at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876. In that day no such problems as confront us now were in existence, and whilst this Legislature, listening to one influence or another, may vote this bill down, you make a colossal mistake.

As it is number one on the calendar by index, it is number one in importance to the people of this Commonwealth, by reason of its merit. Mr. Speaker, as I said in the beginning, the facts involved here are plainly understood, and there is no reason or justification for extended discussion, but I want to say to you men here that outside of the Child Labor Act, and the Workmen's Compensation Bill, what big reconstructive piece of legislation can the session of 1915 ask credit for? I say to you this country stands on the threshold of a great era and while the Federal Constitution is very old, that is because the confederation or the union of the States delegated to the Federal government certain powers there expressd, but in order that the country itself shall continue with great virile strides of toward prosperity, it is essential that the States shall be so equipped by elastic, and progressive and fundamental law that there shall be no restrictions upon the Commonwealth's growth.

Take your proposition of Home Rule, and the State Constitution says that the borrowing capacity shall not exceed seven per centum of the assesed valuation. Only this session we passed for the second time a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution to raise it to ten. Why should the State restrict the municipality in the carrying out of its own problems.

Take the proposition of the courts. It is only within the last two years that the proper respect the courts should have and should never have lost, but came back to them because of the great progressive movement that carried with it a condemnation of our present judicial system. Why should not our judicial system be rearranged, as the honorable jurist, Robert von Moschzisker, of the Supreme bench has said.

How about our propositions of taxation? Are they in the shape in 1915 that they should be? They are the same today as they were in 1874 and the Supreme Court in that construction of what is the same class or grade of classification for taxation purposes, has so restricted the whole idea of taxation that that which is the best, to wit, graded taxation, is impossible under the present fundamental law.

Mr. Speaker, this House would send its name down through golden pages of historic fame to pass this bill. No other bill before us has half the importance to every one of the eight millions of people of this Commonwealth, and you who understand it, and you who know its necessity as well as I do, why need I argue with you. Why don't you, here, today, highly resolve, as it were, that if better laws should be given to the people you should vote "aye" on this proposition for the Constitutional Convention.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think I realize just as fully as my friend from Philadelphia, that from time to time the constitutional law of the government needs some changes, but I also realize by the experience I have had in legislative affairs that a matter of such grave importance cannot be well handled nor well conducted by a delegation of one hundred and sixty-five men. This resolution provides for the creation of a body to constitute one hundred and sixty-five men to amend the Constitution of our State.

Just at the present time we are turning in every direction to find sufficient revenue to carry out the promises made by all our parties and by our executive. We find it extremely difficult to get the members of the House to agree upon what particular measures creating additional revenue should be passed. Right at this time there is over in the Senate a proposition which this House has passed, creating a small body of six individuals to take up during the next two years the question of the necessity of a general revision of the Constitution of this State. I doubt very much whether there are any of the members of this House who have given much more consideration as to the real necessity of a general revision, or a re-making of the Constitution of our State, than myself, and I confess to you that I have not had the time that leads me to conclude that a general revision of the Constitution is necessary. If I only could believe that a revision of the Constitution would be the last word on the Constitutional law of this State for the next ten years, then I would waive the question of the expense and vote for this proposition, but all experience teaches me, and the experience of this House will teach you, who have been here since 1911, you know well that there was quite a change in the Constitutional law of this State in 1909, and yet, I presume, that those who drafted that amendment believed it to be the last word on that particular subject, and that that amendment would be a great improvement to the constitution prior to 1899, but alas what do we find? We find that in 1911 it had not been properly drawn and did not fit as it was presumed to fit into the necessities of the changes suggested and again, in 1911, we had to amend the amendment. Why? Because the subject had been left to a great body of men, each thinking that the other fellow would give it the proper attention. If you create a body such as this constitutional amendment suggests, of one hundred and sixty-five members without anybody having decided thoroughly that there is any general revision needed, whether the changes that come from time to time will not better fit in and make much less for the expense of our State, then a general revision is not required and you should not pass this resolution. I believe that you will agree with me that the result of the careful investigation of the six men provided by the bill introduced by my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, is the wiser course, not only the wiser but a tremendous saving and, from an economic standpoint, will be a great saving to the State and from a practical standpoint a much wiser way to approach this particular subject. For that reason, I think that we should not pass this resolution and incur the expense when we have a vehicle which will better serve the people. Therefore, I think, on the part of wisdom, this House ought to refuse to start this proposition on the way at the present time. It will only mean two years until the Legislature will be able to get some really authentic carefully digested data on the whole proposition. It may be that the suggestion that will come back from this small body of men will satisfy the Legislature of 1917 and that there is no need of the enormous expense involved by a proposed general revision of the Constitution of our State. No constitution that has ever been put upon the statute books will satisfy everybody; there will be the same complaint. Let me call your attention to what occurred when the National Constitution was framed; when in this Government they framed the National Constitution within four years there were twelve amendments added to that Constitution and then for a period of nearly one hundred years afterwards there was not another amendment added to the National Constitution.

In my opinion, from observation and careful investigation in a general way on this question of changing and amending constitutions, I am thoroughly satisfied, because history indicates that I am correct. It is the only place that I can look for light; namely: That the conventions meet for a change of the laws and naturally they must be changed because of changed conditions. It has been suggested that the statutes of our government are a series of patchwork. There are, they always will be and they always have been, if you choose to give it that name, but the proper name is not that they are a piece of patchwork, but are the result of changes, and revision is found necessary from time to time, and the revisions of the Constitution are the result of experience and the necessity for changes from time to time are called for by the people, and even though you make this Constitution complete and new, in 1917 you will find the same old story, for the world don't change. With changed conditions certain changes of your fundamental law will be required and with changed conditions this result is inevitable. I grant that we all complain that the legislative bodies do foolish things and pass laws they should not pass. Why, of course we will, but that is why we meet every two years to correct the mistakes of the previous legislatures, and that is why demands are made for changes from time to time. When we get the last word of constitutional law it will not be written in the proposed new Constitution and it will not solve the question of amendments from time to time in the future. Therefore, in all fairness to our citizenship, from an intelligent illustration that will come from those men that are now provided for, this matter can well be postponed until 1917.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, when I came here at the beginning of this session I felt that to call a constitutional convention would be unwise, but my experience for the last four months has led me to change that conclusion. It seems to me that the Constitution of 1874, having been in service for forty years without any substantial change or amendment except those adopted in 1909, and since that date has outgrown its usefulness, and that there ought to be a substitute. I have been very much impressed that the neighboring State of New York, which had a constitutional convention twenty-one years ago, presided over by the Honorable Joseph Choate, and of which Senator Root was the most active member, is now engaged, under the guidance of Senator Root, in preparing a new Constitution. New York is supposed to be a somewhat conservative State; it is the home of the money power of this country, and yet that State which we sneer at because of being hide-bound by tradition and not liberal in its treatment of its citizens, has found it necessary to reconstruct its organic law twice within the last twenty-two years. Now, another thing, we submit constitutional amendments at almost every election and how many of us who are members of this body knew before election day when we went into the booth what these amendments were? How did the average voter treat them? Why, Mr. Speaker, he ignored those amendments. Not fifty per cent. of the voters voting at any general election, at which constitutional amendments were submitted, voted on those subjects at all. They took little interest in them; they don't know what is happening; they are absolutely at the mercy of the House and Senate because, as a rule, the amendments as submitted are adopted without discussion or dissent. It seems to me that the interests of the Commonwealth would be served by the election of a body of men, the number being reasonably small, as provided by this bill, for the purpose of revising and amending our organic law. After all, it would come up to the people to say whether or not they would accept that revision, and when the whole organic law was before the people then there would be discussion on the subject and then there would be intelligent voting and nothing would be permitted to slide through by reason of inattention or inadvertence or by the reasons of the influence of the friends of small cliques. Therefore, sir, I trust that the House will vote for this bill. In the matter of expense the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, has shown you the enormous cost in the last few years, and we have had demonstrated upon the floor of this House not once or twice or thrice, the enormous cost for the advertising of these constutitional amendments, and the great trouble is that the advertising as it has been done does not reach the average voter who does not care and does not read it and therefore, the constitutional amendments which have been adopted have virtually gone by default. I think we ought to revise our organic law at this time. Forty years is more than a generation and changes in the way we look at things have been so radical and so far-reaching that if we are to do what the people want done we must have a different organic law.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, is the warmest friend I have in the world. He is my colleague and hails from the same district as I do. He is my office associate and, personally, I hold nobody in higher esteem than I do Mr. Roney, of Philadelphia. But to paraphrase a notorious New Yorker, "This is a question of the Constitution between friends," and should be viewed in a more serious light and without apology of any kind. I want to say that my experience in this session of the Legislature has taught me one principle and that is that a large, unwieldy body, composed of from 150 to 200 men, cannot, no matter how wise each individual is, consistently and conservatively estimate their functions in a matter so serious as a constitutional revision. I am not opposed to a constitutional revision; I believe that with the aid of the Republican party of this State and the better citizens in this State and everybody in this State in common must be in favor of constitutional revision, but I say that in approaching so serious a question which goes to the very roots and to the very foundation and the very core of society of the State, we must do so calmly and deliberately and with that end in view, some two weeks ago, I proposed a bill which was passed by this House which called for the creation of a constitutional commission which was to examine into the data, acquire statistics and prepare for the necessities to report to the next session of the Legislature, the ayes and nays and the whys and wherefores as to why we should have a constitutional convention. That bill passed by this House had as its fundamental idea and reason this object and it is now in the Senate. The fact that work of so serious a nature ought to be done by a small committee who should carefully scrutinize every proposition that could be brought before a large body is apparent.

I want to say that the great conservative State of New York is now holding or is just about concluding the holding of a Constitutional convention and it was the State of New York which before the convention met had a committee which proposed to the good citizens of that convention the propositions to be submitted and for that reason that convention is having a very calm and deliberate session, as its work was predigested. The bill which passed the House provides in the nature of a committee for the work to be taken up by the Constitutional Convention which will be recognized the same as reports from Committee of this Legislature when those Committees report their work before the body of this House. When a bill is presented to a body of this House, the Speaker refers it to committee. It is my pleasure to work on what is known as the Judiciary General Committee. In that committee every bill that is referred to it is carefully scanned, recommendations are made, speeches are made, people gave their ideas on every bill that came there and it was referred back to this House for their consideration. Some bills were negatively reported and some were not recommended at all. And, Mr. Speaker, such is the idea passed by this House which is now in the Senate on the subject of a constitutional convention, and I say that that bill ought to go through and that it ought to be passed by the Senate so that if we do have a constitutional convention the Legislature can take it up intelligently. I say we ought not to run carelessly in a haphazard or willy nilly manner into this work of holding a constitutional convention and, therefore, I think that we should all vote "No" on this proposition.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I think some of the remarks of my colleague from the third Legislative district require some reply. He speaks about an unwieldly body of from one hundred and fifty to two hundred men deliberating in a constitutional convention and he is very much afraid that that number makes them unwieldly and inefficient in the proper conduct of their business. A fine remark from my colleague from the third legislative district when 207 of the finest men in Pennsylvania sit here day after day doing the very finest work.

Mr. Speaker, my friend from Delaware speaks about the expenses of this constitutional convention. For advertising in the newspapers of this State, and by some of the complaints of this floor they have not all been paid, but for advertising constitutional amendments in 1909, 1911, 1913 and 1915 there has been expended out of the State Treasury eight hundred and sixteen thousand dollars, and in the General Appropriation Bill there is a deficiency appropriation of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars making more than one million dollars in four years. For what? For what? For having session after session pass resolutions and then have what percentage of the people vote on them at the polls? You speak of the expense of this convention—five hundred thousand dollars. You don't pay a penny, nor do you pass a bill paying a penny, until what? Until the people of Pennsylvania in their sovereignty shall say next November "do we want a convention?" If they don't want a convention, and it is their business more than yours and mine, if they don't want a convention, you don't spend a penny. If they do want a convention, then Mr. Speaker as all power is inherent and as no dictation should influence any man in a matter so fundamentally important as the question of referring to his sovereign master—the people—the question of their organic law. Then I say, if it is the only thing I ever say in the Legislature, that we owe ourselves the duty to give ourselves that respect as representatives of the people to give them the right that the Constitution gives them, that they shall be supreme masters of their destiny. He said that the Commission for the purpose of investigating the constitutional proposition was coming out of the Senate. It seems to me, in 1913, we had a commission to study what parts of the Constitution needed revision but they never went into existence. Why? Why, are nine men comparable to a committee of the House,—the Judiciary General of this House is composed of 25 respectable, eminent and capable gentlemen? The proportion of 25 to 207, what is that to nine against eight million? Do nine people represent this State like 25 men represent a body like this House of 207?

I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I have argued the matter so long. I look into your sincere faces and I know that you feel, as I do, that five hundred thousand dollars for a brand new suit that Pennnsylvania can wear and wear for many years is nothing, as a matter of course, to over one million dollars in four years for the accomplishment of no material good. I ask you, gentlemen, of this House, in view of the importance involved in this proposition to vote aye on this bill, and to put up to your constituents next November whether or not the old suit of 1874 is not too small, and whether, to-day, we are not a so much bigger and so much grander a State that we need a newer and a better Constitution?

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 1292, File Folio 7521, on page 18 of today's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1292, entitled:

An Act to further amend an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An Act to provide for the classification of the townships of the Commonwealth with respect to their population into two classes and to prescribe the form of government for townships of each class"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, all that this bill provides is to take the power of the Court and give it back to the Commissioners of first class townships in the building of roads. That is all there is to the bill.

Mr. SONES. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in 1893 there was passed a bill that is known locally to our people up my way as the Losch Act. Under the Losch Act one or more taxpayers can enter into a contract to build the roads, to lay out new roads and keep them in repair. Now this act has been amended and supplemented several times. The purpose of this act here is to take townships of the first class out of this act, to repeal it as to that. We think this is a bad bill and I hope the gentlemen of the House will vote it down. The Losch Act has proved a benefit to a number of counties in this State. In a number of townships in my county, the County of Schuylkill, the roads are made under this act and the character of the roads is excellent. I have had occasion through the last seven years to travel through all parts of the county and wherever they are made under contract and bonds to the Court the roads are in splendid condition. Some of the roads compare favorably with the best State highways. Our people are in favor of this act in its entirety. We should not repeal a part of it. The taxpayers, if they wish to build the roads under this act, enter into a contract and they present their contract and their bond to the Court and if the bond is approved they go ahead with the making and the repairing of the road. All the other individuals in the township do not pay a cent towards the road tax wherever the roads are maintained under this act. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, we think that this act ought to be maintained in its entirety and I ask you to vote down this bill.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, under the present law in the State of Pennsylvania, Commissioners of the first class townships or the Supervisors of the second class townships, which means really the same office except that the statutes of the State provide that in first class townships they are known as Commissioners while in second class townships they are known as Supervisors,—under the present law of Pennsylvania these Commissioners or these Supervisors have the power, if any citizen in that district chooses to enter into an agreement to repair a piece of public road or to rebuild it or to offer to take care of it free of all charge to the township, the Supervisors or Commissioners have the right to enter into that contract. I want to state this again clearly, so that the House will understand it: Under the present law, if the Supervisors or Commissioners of a township are approached by any citizen of that township and that citizen says, I will agree to improve and maintain all the public roads from my residence down to the station free of charge to the township, under the present law the municipal authorities have the authority to enter into that contract. If you pass this bill to-day you will take that power away. Now, that ought to be all that is necesary to defeat this bill. That is the exact situation. If you will turn to your calendars, and I hope you will, you can corroborate what I tell you. The first seven lines of the present law are retained in the so-called amendment. The balance of the twenty odd lines that constitute the present law are wiped out and the effect of it is just as I stated to you; and it does seem to me impossible to know why anybody would suggest that the authorities of a township did not have the power to relieve the taxpayers of that township from the maintenance or improvement or building of any public highways. Why, it ought not to have a vote in this House.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 1053 entitled "An Act to validate transactions of building and loan associations whose charter has expired and permitting such building and loan association to make application for renewal of said charter within six months from the expiration notwithstanding a failure to comply with all the requirements provided by law for renewals of charters."

This Bill proposes to validate transactions of building and loan associations whose charters have expired. The Bill has already met with executive disfavor. The validating of transactions by an association after its charter has expired and before a renewal of its charter is had is a procedure fraught with grave consequences. In this interim no law controls. The acts of the association are unwarranted by law. To validate the same is to lend the sanction of the Commonwealth to transactions made and carried out entirely without the pale of the law.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. LAULER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, for the information of the House, I will say that this bill was prepared by the Allegheny Bar Association, and by the Law Librarian of Allegheny County. Bill 1013 which has passed the House and Senate and was signed by the Governor, was a bill creating a salary board in Allegheny County, consisting of the Commissioners, the judges and officers, and so forth and so on, and this bill is simply repealing the statutes or the acts setting forth what the salaries of the different employes of the different counties were, and bringing them under the act that passed sometime ago—Act 1013.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1122 (Senate Bill No. 536), as follows:

An Act creating a Division of Municipal Statistics and Information in the Department of Labor and Industry and fixing the compensation of officers and employes therein

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Commissioner of Labor and Industry is hereby authorized to establish in said Department in the Bureau of Statistics and Information a Division of Municipal Statistics and Information The said Division shall gather classify index and make available statistical and other information from any and every source that may be helpful in improving the methods of administration in the several municipalities of the Commonwealth

Section 2 The Commissioner of Labor and Industry is hereby authorized to employ a municipal statistician who in his judgment shall be qualified to perform the duties therein described at an annual salary of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) and a stenographer and typewriter to assist said statistician in the performance of his duties at an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200.00)

Section 3 It is hereby made the duty of every city or borough official to furnish such information as may be requested by the chief of the Bureau of Statistics and Information or his duly authorized deputy

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill creates a new position carrying a salary of two thousand dollars a year, and also a stenographer's salary. In view of the fate of the revenue bills, it seems to me unwise to pass a bill of this sort.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in my opinion this is a very meritorious measure. The purpose of this bill is to aid all municipalities by gathering statistical information in Pennsylvania and other States. At the present time the governments of municipalities have absolutely no method of securing such information; but by establishing this department the government of the municipality desiring certain information in reference to the government and management of other municipalities need but go to the department in the City of Harrisburg and secure such information. At the present time there is absolutely no such method of procedure. The method of securing this information is very expensive and at times it is almost impossible to secure it. Therefore, I think it is a very meritorious measure and should be passed.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1431 (Senate Bill No. 52), as follows:

An Act relating to the sale of goods

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That

First A contract to sell goods is a contract whereby the seller agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price

Second A sale of goods is an agreement whereby the seller transfers the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price

Third A contract to sell or a sale may be absolute or conditional

Fourth There may be a contract to sell or a sale between one part owner and another

Section 2 Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract and to transfer and acquire property

Where necessaries are sold and delivered to an infant or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract he must pay a reasonable price therefor or return the goods in substantially the same condition as when received within reasonable time

Necessaries in this section mean goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or other person and to his actual requirement at the time of delivery

Section 3 Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf a contract to sell or a sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal) or by word of mouth or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth or may be inferred from the conduct of the parties

Section 4 First A contract to sell or a sale of any goods or choses in action of the value of five hundred dollars or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods or choses in action so contracted to be sold or sold and actually receive the same or give something in earnest to bind the contract or in part payment or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract or sale be signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf

Second The provisions of this section apply to every such contract or sale notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time or may not at the time of such contract or sale be actually made procured or provided or fit or ready for delivery or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof or rendering the same fit for delivery but if the goods are to be manufactured by the seller especially for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business the provisions of this section shall not apply

Third There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer either before or after delivery of the goods or any part thereof expresses by words or conduct his assent to becoming the owner of those specific goods

Section 5 First The goods which form the subject of a contract to sell may be either existing goods owned or possessed by the seller or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract to sell in this act called "future goods"

Second There may be a contract to sell goods the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen

Third Where the parties purport to effect a present sale of future goods the agreement operates as a contract to sell the goods

Section 6 First There may be a contract to sell or a sale of an undivided share of goods If the parties intend to effect a present sale the buyer by force of the agreement becomes an owner in common with the owner or owners of the remaining shares

Second In the case of fungible goods there may be a sale of an undivided share of a specific mass though the seller purports to sell and the buyer to buy a definite number weight or measure of the goods in the mass and though the number weight or measure of the goods in the mass is undetermined By such a sale the buyer becomes owner in common of such a share of the mass as the number weight or measure bought bears to the number weight or measure of the mass If the mass contains less than the number weight or measure bought the buyer becomes the owner of the whole mass and the seller is bound to make good the deficiency from similar goods unless a contrary intent appears

Section 7 First Where the parties purport to sell specific goods and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have wholly perished at the time when the agreement is made the agreement is void

Second Where the parties purport to sell specific goods and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished in part or have wholly or in a material part so deteriorated in quality as to be substantially changed in character the buyer may at his option treat the sale

(a) As avoided or

(b) As transferring the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the sale was indivisible or to pay the agreed price for the goods in which the property passes if the sale was divisible

Section 8 First Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and subsequently but before the risk passes to the buyer without any fault on the part of the seller or the buyer the goods wholly perish the contract is thereby avoided

Second Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and subsequently but before the risk passes to the buyer without any fault of the seller or the buyer of the goods perish or the whole or a material part of the goods so deteriorate in quality as to be substantially changed in character the buyer may at his option treat the contract

(a) As avoided or

(b) As binding the seller to transfer the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the contract was indivisible or to pay the agreed price for so much of the goods as the seller by the buyer's option is bound to transfer if the contract was divisible

Section 9 First The price may be fixed by the contract or may be left to be fixed in such manner as may be agreed or it may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties

Second The price may be made payable in any personal property

Third, Where transferring or promising to transfer any interest in real estate constitutes the whole or part of the consideration for transferring or for promising to transfer the property in goods this act shall not apply

Fourth Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions the buyer must pay a reasonable price What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case

Section 10 First Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods at a price or on terms to be fixed by a third person and such third person without fault of the seller or the buyer cannot or does not fix the price or terms the contract or the sale is thereby avoided but if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor

Second Where such third person is prevented from fixing the price or terms by fault of the seller or the buyer the party not in fault may have such remedies against the party in fault as are allowed by sections fifty-two to seventy of this act

Section 11 First Where the obligation of either party to a contract to sell or a sale is subject to any condition which is not performed such party may refuse to proceed with the contract or sale or he may waive perfomance of the condition If the other party has promised that the condition should happen or be performed such first-mentioned party may also treat the non-performance of the condition as a breach of warranty

Second Where the property in the goods has not passed the buyer may treat the fulfillment by the seller of his obligation to furnish goods as described and as warranted expressly or by implication in the contract to sell as a condition of the obligation of the buyer to perform his promise to accept and pay for the goods

Section 12 Any affirmation of fact or any promise by the seller relating to the goods is an express warranty if the natural tendency of such affirmation or promise is to induce the buyer to purchase the goods and if the buyer purchases the goods relying thereon no affirmation of the value of the goods nor any statement purporting to be a statement of the seller's opinion only shall be construed as a warranty

Section 13 In a contract to sell or a sale unless a contrary intention appears there is

First An implied warranty on the part of the seller that in the case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods and that in the case of a contract to sell he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass

Second An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods as against any lawful claims existing at the time of the sale

Third An implied warranty that the goods shall be free at the time of the sale from any charge or encumbrance in favor of any third person not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract or sale is made

Fourth This section shall not however be held to render liable a sheriff auctioneer mortgagee or other person professing to sell by virtue of authority in fact or law goods in which a third person has a legal or equitable interest

Section 14 Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description and if the contract or sale be by sample as well as by decription it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods correspond with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description

Section 15 Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract to sell or a sale except as follows

First Where a buyer expressly or by implication makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required and it appears that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not) there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose

Second Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not) there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of merchantable quality

Third if the buyer has examined the goods there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed

Fourth In the case of a contract to sell or a sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any particular purpose

Fifth An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade

Sixth an express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied under this act unless inconsistent therewith

Section 16 In a case of a contract to sell or a sale by sample

(a) There is an implied warranty that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality

(b) There is an implied warranty that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample except so far as otherwise provided in section forty-seven sub-section third

(c) If the seller is a dealer in goods of that kind there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample

Section 17 Where there is a contract to sell unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained but property in an undivided share of ascertained goods may be transferred as provided in section six

Section 18 First where there is a contract to sell specific or ascertained goods the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred

Second For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties regard shall be had to the terms of the contract the conduct of the parties usages of trade and the circumstances of the case

Section 19 Unless a different intention appears the following are the rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer

Rule 1 Where there is an unconditional contract to sell specific goods in a deliverable state the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether the time of payment or the time of delivery or both be postponed

Rule 2 Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state the property does not pass until such thing be done

Rule 3 First when goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return" or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price the property passes to the buyer on delivery but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract or if no time has been fixed within a reasonable time

Second When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on trial or on satisfaction or other similar terms the property therein passes to the buyer

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection then if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods on the expiration of such time and if no time has been fixed on the expiration of a reasonable time What is a reasonable time is a question of fact

Rule 4 Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to tbe contract either by the seller with the assent of the buyer or by the buyer with the assent of the seller the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer Such assent may be expressed or implied and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made

Second Where in pursuance of a contract to sell the seller delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to do holding for the buyer he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract except in the case provided for in the next rule and in section twenty This presumption is applicable although by the terms of the contract the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods and the goods are marked with the words Collect on Delivery or their equivalents

Rule 5 If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer or at a particular place or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer or to a particular place the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon

Section 20 First Where there is a contract to sell specific goods or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract the seller may by the terms of the contract or appropriation reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer

Second Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent or to the order of the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods But if except for the form of the bill of lading the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods the seller's property in the goods so shipped and delivered shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract

Third Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer

Fourth Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and a negotiable bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby If however the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer or is endorsed in blank or to the buyer by the person to whose order the bill of lading is drawn one who purchases in good faith for value the bill of lading or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods although the bill of exchange has not been honored provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading indorsed by the consignee named therein or of the goods without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful but delivery to the endorsee of the bill of lading shall discharge the carrier from all resposibility for the goods

Section 21 In the case of a sale by auction

First Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale

Second A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner Until such announcement is made any bidder may retract his bid and the auctioneer may withdraw goods from sale unless the auction has been announced to be without reserve

Third A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller

Fourth Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer

Section 22 Unless otherwise agreed the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer but when the property therein is transfrred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not except that

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or to a bailee for the buyer in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure the performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract the goods are at the buyer's risk from the time of such delivery

(b) Where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault

Section 23 First Subject to the provisions of this act where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell

Second Nothing in this act however shall affect

(a) The provisions of any factors act recording acts or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof

(b) The validity of any contract to sell or sale under any special common law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction

Section 24 Where the seller of goods has a voidable title thereto but his title has not been avoided at the time of the sale the buyer acquires a good title to the goods provided he buys them in good faith for value and without notice of the seller's defect of title

Section 25 Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods or of negotiable documents of title of the goods the delivery or transfer by that person or by an agent acting for him of the goods or documents of title under any sale pledge or other dispostion thereof to any person receiving and paying value for the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same

Section 26 Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods or of negotiable documents of title to the goods and such retention of possession is fraudulent in fact or is deemed fraudulent under any rule of law a creditor or creditors of the seller may treat the sale as void

Section 27 A document of title in which it is stated that the goods referred to therein will be delivered to the bearer or to the order of any person named in such document is a negotiable document of title

Section 28 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by delivery

(a) Where by the terms of the document the carrier warehouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer or

(b) Where by the terms of the document the carrier wareshouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the document has indorsed it in blank or to bearer

Where by the terms of a negotiable document of title the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable document of title has been indorsed in blank or to bearer any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person and in such case the document shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee

Section 29 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the document deliverable Such indorsement may be in blank to bearer or to a specified person If indorsed to a specified person it may be again negotiated by the endorsement of such person in blank to bearer or to another specified person Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner

Section 30 If a document of title which contains an undertaking by a carrier warehouseman or other bailee to deliver the goods to the bearer to a specified person or order or to the order of a specified person or which contains words of like import has placed upon it the words "not negotiable" "non-negotiable" or the like such a document may nevertheless be negotiated by the holder and is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of this act But nothing in this act contained shall be construed as limiting or defining the effect upon the rights and obligations of the carrier warehouseman or other bailee issuing a document of title or placing thereon the words "not negotiable" non-negotiable" or the like

Section 31 (a) A document of title which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee A non-negotiable document cannot be negotiated and the indorsement of such a document gives the transferee no additional right

(b) Nothing in this section nor in any other provision of this act shall be construed to impose upon any common carrier any obligation to require the surrender of the bill of lading or shipping receipt before making delivery of the goods where by the terms of said bill of lading or shipping receipt the goods are deliverable to the consignee without surrender of such bill of lading or shipping receipt

Section 32 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated

(a) by the owner thereof or

(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted by the owner if by the terms of the document the bailee issuing the document undetrakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted or if at the time of such entrusting the document is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery

Section 33 A person to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby

(a) such title to the goods as the person negotiating the document to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the document had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and

(b) The direct obligation of the bailee issuing the document to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document as fully as if such bailee had contracted directly with him

Section 34 A person to whom a document of title has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby as against the transferor the title to the goods subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor

If the document is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the bailee who issued the document of the transfer thereof and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of such bailee to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document

Prior to the notification of such bailee by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable document of title the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of such bailee may be defeated by the levy of the attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor or by a notification to such bailee by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transfer or of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor

Section 35 Where a negotiable document of title is transferred for value by delivery and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the document unless a contrary intention appears The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made

Section 36 A person who for value negotiates or transfers a document of title by indorsement or delivery including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a document of title unless a contrary intention appears warrants

(a) That the document is genuine

(b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it

(c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the document and

(d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a document of title the goods represented thereby

Section 37 The indorsement of a document of title shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the bailee who issued the document or previous indorsers thereof to fulfill their respective obligations

Section 38 The validity of the negotiaation of a negotiable document of title is not impaired by the fact that the negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation or by the fact that the owner of the document was induced by fraud mistake or duress to entrust the possession or custody thereof to such person if the person to whom the document was negotiated or person to whom the document was subsequently negotiated paid value therefor without notice of the breach of duty or fraud mistake or duress

Section 39 If goods are delivered to a bailee by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document of title is issued for them they cannot thereafter while in the possession of such bailee be attached by garnishment or otherwise or be levied upon under an execution unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined The bailee shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court

Section 40 A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable document of title shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such document or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process

Section 41 It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods and of the buyer to accept and pay for them in accordance with the terms of the contract to sell or sale

Section 42 Unless otherwise agreed delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions that is to say the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods

Section 43 First Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract express or implied between the parties Apart from any such contract express or implied or usage of trade to the contrary the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he have one and if not his residence but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specifis goods which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place then that place is the place of delivery

Second Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer but no time for sending them is fixed the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time

Third Where the goods at the time of the sale are in the possession of a third person the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale Nothing is this section however shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document or of title to goods

Fourth Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact

Fifth Unless otherwise agreed the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller

Section 44 One Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell the buyer may reject them but if the buyer accepts or retains the goods so delivered knowing that the seller is not going to perform the contract in full he must pay for them at the contract rate If however the buyer has used or disposed of the goods delivered before he knows that the seller is not going to perform his contract in full the buyer shall not be liable for more than the fair value to him of the goods so received

Second Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest or he may reject the whole If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate

Third Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest or he may reject the whole

Fourth the provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade special agreement or course of dealing between the parties

Section 45 First Unless otherwise agreed or it is to be implied from the nature of the contract the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by installments

Second Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivered by stated installments which are to be separately paid for and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more installments or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more installments it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract or whether the breach is severable giving rise to a claim for compensation but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken

Section 46 First Where in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer delivery of the goods to the carrier whether named by the buyer or not for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer except in the case provided for in section nineteen rule five or unless a contrary intent appears

Two Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case If the seller omit so to do and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself or may hold the seller responsible in damages

Three Unless otherwise agreed where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure the seller must give notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit and if the seller fails to do so the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit

Section 47 Where goods are delivered to the buyer which he has not previously examined he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Se ond Unless otherwise agreed when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer he is bound on request to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Third Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words collect on delivery or otherwise the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement and proper written authority to the carrier permitting su h examination

Section 48 The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them or when the goods have been delivered to him and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller or when after the lapse of a reasonable time he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them

Section 49 In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or the sale But if after acceptance of the goods the buyer fail to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows or ought to know of such breach the seller shall not be liable therefor

Section 50 Unless otherwise agreed where goods are delivered to the buyer and he refuses to accept them having the right so to do he is not bound to return them to the seller but it is sufficient to if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them

Section 51 When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of the entire contract the seller shall have the rights against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default

Section 52 First The seller of goods is deemed to be an unpaid seller within the meaning of this act

(a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered

(b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment and the condition on which it was received has been broken by reason of the dishonor of the instrument the insolvency of the buyer or otherwise

Two In sections fifty-two to sixty-two of this act the term "seller" includes an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading has been endorsed or a consignor or agent who has himself paid or is directly responsible for the price or any other person who is in the position of a seller

Section 53 One Subject to the provisions of this act notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer the unpaid seller of goods as such has

(a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them

(b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer a right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with the possession of them

(c) A right of resale as limited by this act

(d) A right to rescind the sale as limited by this act

Two Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer the unpaid seller has in addition to his other remedies a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transit where the property has passed to the buyer

Section 54 One Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until the payment or tender of the price in the following cases namely

(a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit

(b) Where the goods have been sold on credit but the term of credit has expired

(c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent

Two The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer

Section 55 Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention

Section 56 One The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof

(b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods

(c) By waiver thereof

Two The unpaid seller of goods having a lien thereon does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods

Section 57 Subject to the provisions of this act when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit that is to say he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possession

Section 58 One Goods are in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water or other bailee for the purpose or transmission to the buyer until the buyer or his agent in that behalf takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee

(b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them even if the seller has refused to receive them back

Two Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) If the buyer or his agent in that behalf obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination

(b) If after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent and it is immaterial that further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf

Three If the goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer

Four If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or his agent in that behalf the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transit unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods

Section 59 One The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transit either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are Such notice must state that the buyer is insolvent and has not paid the seller of the goods and may be given by either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal In the latter case the notice to be effectual must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal by the exercise of reasonable diligence may prevent a delivery to the buyer

Two When notice of stoppage in transit is given by the seller to the carrier or other bailee in possession of the goods he must redeliver the goods to or according to the directions of the seller The expenses of such redelivery must be borne by the seller If however a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee he shall not be obliged to deliver or justify in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancellation

Section 60 One Where the goods are of a perishable nature or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may resell the goods He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two Where a resale is made as authorized in this section the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer

Three It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer has been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made

Four It is not essential to the validity or a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer

Five The Seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale

Section 61 One An unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted

Section 62 Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is not affected by any sale or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made unless the seller has assented thereto

If however a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transit shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier or other bailee who issued such document of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transit

Section 63 One Where under a contract to sell or a sale the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods

Two Where under a contract to sell or a sale the price is payable on a day certain irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price the seller may maintain an action for the price although the property in the goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has become unable to perform the contract or the sale on his part or has manifested an intention not to perform it

Three Although the property in the goods has not passed if they cannot readily be resold for a reasonable price and if the provisions of section sixty-four (four) are not applicable the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer and if the buyer refuses to receive them may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price

Section 64 One Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for non-acceptance

Two The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the buyer's breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages is in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted or if no time was fixed for acceptance then at the time of the refusal to accept

Four If while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfill his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing towards carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyers repudiation or countermand The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be allowed for in estimating such damages

Section 65 Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder or has committed a material breach thereof the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer

Section 66 Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld

Section 67 One Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for non-delivery

Second The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the sellers breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered or if no time was fixed then at the time of the refusal to deliver

Section 68 Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods a court having the powers of a court of equity may if the remedy at law be inadequate on the application of the buyer by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages The judgment or decree may be unconditional or upon such terms and conditions as to damages payment of the price and otherwise as to the court may seem just

Section 69 One Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller the buyer may at his election

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(c) Refuse to accept the goods if the property therein has not passed and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(d) Rescind the contract to sell or the sale and refuse to receive the goods or if the goods have already been received return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid

Two When the buyer has claimed and been granted a remedy in any one of those ways no other remedy can thereafter be granted

Three Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer But if the deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale

Four Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods If the price or any part thereof has already been paid the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid concurrently with the return of the goods or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price

Five Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so if the seller refuse to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section fifty-three

Six The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the breach of warranty

Seven In the case of breach of warranty of quality such loss in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty

Section 70 Nothing in this act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed

Section 71 Where any right duty or liability would arise under a contract to sell or a sale by implication of law it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties or by custom if the custom be such as to bind both parties to the contract or the sale All implications from surrounding circumstances or from the nature of a contract or agreement shall be regarded as forming part of the contract or agreement

Section 72 Where any right duty or liability is declared by this act it may unless otherwise by this act provided be enforced by action

Section 73 In any case not provided for in this act the rules of law and equity including the law merchant and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud misrepresentation duress or coercion mistake bankruptcy or other invalidating cause shall continue to apply to contracts to sell and to sales of goods

Section 74 This act shall be so interpreted and construed if possible as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this is a kindred bill to the uniform negotiable instruments act, the warehouse receipt act, the stock transfer and bills of lading act and the partnership act which was passed this session. This bill was gotten up by a commission or a conference of commissioners appointed by the Governors of the various States and has peculiar application to the States of Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania, which States have harmoniously made arrangements on this subject, and I think, Mr. Speaker, in view of that fact this House should pass this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1584 (Senate No. 786), entitled:

An Act amending section number one thousand four hundred and two of article fourteen of an act entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call attention to this bill. It may work to the very great injury of some districts. If one of these homes is located in a township adjoining a borough and they have a half acre of ground on the inside of a borough they can send all the children they have located on those premises to the school in that town. They may send hunrdeds of children into a small town public school and require the town to pay for the teachers books and everything required and it will be an imposition upon that town. They should go to a public school in their own district and not be allowed to go into any other district.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—2.

Sinclair, ... 1.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. SHOWALTER offered the following motion, which was twice read and considered:

Moved by Mr. Showalter, seconded by Mr. Williams, that the vote by which House Bill No. 1587 (Senate Bill No. 799), File Folio 2149, entitled:

A Joint Resolution to provide for the participation of the Second Regiment Infantry National Guard of Pennsylvania in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to be held at San Francisco California in nineteen hundred and fifteen to celebrate the completion and opening of the Panama Canal and the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean and providing that such officers and enlisted men of said regiment as participate in said exposition shall be paid the same per diem pay of officers and men and such allowances in connection with the annual encampment as are paid from State funds which they would receive at the annual encampment was defeated on final passage on Tuesday, May 11th, 1915, be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, last night when I protested against the passage of this bill I understood that it was to carry this regiment of the National Guard to San Francisco at the expense of the State; that the State would offer them free transportation and pay them for the time that they were there. I have made an investigation and I have carefully studied the bill and I have taken it up with the Adjutant General's Department and they inform me there that the bill is to provide that the men who go out there are to be paid just what would be paid if they were to go to Mt. Gretna at the annual encampment. When they go to the annual encampment at Mt. Gretna they are given free transportation and eight days' pay. I am informed by the Department that if these men go out there they must pay their own fare out and back and their expenses while there and that they will be allowed the railroad fare from Philadelphia to Mt. Gretna and return and also eight days' pay, and if that is the provision of the bill I have no objection against it and I want to see these boys have what is due them.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill came up last night in my temporary absence and I had promised the officers of this regiment to look after the bill in its passage through the House. I think if the members understood the provisions of this bill thoroughly that there could be no objections whatever to its passage. I cannot conceive why any member should object to the passage of this bill for any reason because it does not cost the State a single penny to carry out the provisions that are contained in it. It simply provides that the money that would go to the men who would otherwise have to remain at home is paid to them when they go on this trip to San Francisco at their own expense.

Mr. GINGERY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wobensmith.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wobensmith, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GINGERY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman why this one particular regiment is picked out.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman I would say that this regiment was not picked out. There was no picking out at all. This regiment has reached its seventy-fifth anniversary this year and for three years has been collecting money to pay their own expenses, and any other regiment that is willing to pay its own expenses is free to go out there and I would be glad to support a measure to pay to them their regular camp allowance at Mt. Gretna, which this bill provides for.

Mr. GEISER. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wobensmith

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wobensmith, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if the Adjutant General of this State is in favor of this.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would say that Mr. Showalter to-day has seen the Aujutant General and he said, most certainly, that he was in favor of it.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the bill is all right, but why not have the bill so amended as to include any regiment of the Pennsylvania National Guard that cares to go to the Exposition on the same terms. As I understand, this bill only provides for a certain regiment to do this. Why not have the bill so amended that any regiment of the National Guard can go to the Exposition on the same terms?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, when this bill was under consideration first the supposition was that this was a junket. Now I want to say for the information of my fellow members that this regiment has been making preparations for this trip for some time. They held fairs by which they gathered together a fund that they have devoted to defray their expenses. The only expense to the State would be the eight days' pay that these men would get if they attended the annual encampment at Mt. Gretna. It is no junket. It is a meritorious bill and should receive the favorable consideration of the members of the House. Therefore, I would ask you, in consideration of the fact that there is no extra expense and that it carries no appropriation, I would ask the members to vote "aye."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Whereas At the urgent appeal of President Lincoln the Governor of Pennsylvania Andrew G. Curtin in both of said years called upon cities of Pennsylvania to enlist in the defense of the State and

Whereas It is generally admitted that the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania answering the call of Governor Curtin were potential factors in this terrible crisis and

Whereas Neither the State nor the Nation has shown to these brave defenders of Pennsylvania the proper appreciation of their servicees when at the call of the Governor during the days of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two and one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three they left their homes and firesides and hastened to the defense of their State and

Whereas In many of the encounters that ensued after the enlistment of these Emergency Men these men bore themselves bravely and fully answered every demand made upon them in the line of patriotic duty and

Whereas Said Emergency Men were commanded by United States officers and marched under orders of the United States Government and under such commonders performed duties beyond the boundaries of Pennsylvania and

Whereas Now in their old age many of these men who at that time were willing to lay down their lives as a sacrifice for the good of their country are now facing the sunset of life in straightened circumstances and in many cases in need of that care and attention which the Government and the Commonwealth should provide and

Whereas The National Government heretofore in its acknowledgment of the debt we owe to the soldiers of the Civil War has cared for many men whose services rendered were not greater than those rendered by the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urgently bring it to the attention of the Congress of the United States that adequate provision has not been made for the Emergency Men who enlisted during the Civil War particularly the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania and that through pension or otherwise they should be taken care of in their declining days that they cannot say that their country is unmindful of their services and ungrateful for what they did

PRAYER.

The Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

Our Father, Thou art speaking to us this morning through Nature ornamented so beautifully. Thou dost speak to us through providential dealings and through Thy word, but especially and most intimately Thou dost talk to our consciences by Thy still, small voice. May we hear that voice, and may we obey it. Bless this body, bless the General Assembly in the closing days. May the plenitude of Thy goodness rest upon the body, and through Thy goodness and Thy grace everything that is done, and when the end comes, and when the gavel falls may it work for the best good of this great people. We ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

RESOLUTION CONCERNING THE ADOPTION OF A STATE COLOR, A STATE MOTTO, A STATE FLOWER AND A STATE SONG.

The Chair presented the following communication, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 11, 1915.

To the President and Members of Senate of the Pennsylvania Legislature.

Gentlemen:—I would respectfully submit to your honorable body the following resolution for your consideration:

Resolved, That in view of the fact that Pennsylvania is recognized as the Cradle of Liberty of these United States, that our "Color" be the National ones, the Red and Blue on a white ground. In the word Pennsylvania, the colors alternating from blue to red.

Resolved, That we adopt as our motto (not seal) "We are Second to None."

Resolved, That we choose for our "State Flower" one native to the soil, one typical of strength and beauty, one that for ages past has been recognized as the "Victor's Crown" and which God and Nature has crowned the hills and mountains of Pennsylvania, "The Mountain Laurel."

Resolved, That we endorse as our State Song one that is built on facts and history, "Pennsylvania," by (Mrs.) Margaret K. Griffith, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The reasons for presenting these resolutions are as follows:

The Commercial club (1,500 business men) of Pittsburgh are holding a Prosperity Carnival this week to boost trade and made in the U. S. A. in which the forty-eight States are represented along the central aisle styled Lincoln's Highway. Most of these States have their colors, motto, State flower and song. Thus, Missouri has "Show Me," Texas another, etc. Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, as the host, have none of these and in putting on the play for School Day, May 15, it has shown me how much we need them. Another item we lack is something pertaining to the Liberty Bell. I have hunted Pittsburgh over and not a picture, banner nor emblem can be found. Not even in the Newspaper offices. It should always be displayed in connection with the American Flag.

Sincerely yours,

MARGARET K. GRIFFITH.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. MAGEE asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Chester, Mr. Gyger.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION CONVEYING MESSAGE TO THE PRESIDENT FOR THE UPHOLDING OF OUR NATIONAL HONOR, DIGNITY AND SECURITY AND RECOMMENDING THAT THE ARMY, NAVY AND COAST DEFENSES BE PUT IN THE HIGHEST STATE OF EFFICIENCY.

Whereas, The Imperial German Gvernment, within two months last past, and prior to the sinking of the Lusitania, has committed a series of unjustifiable acts against the United States of America and many of its citizens, affronting our national honor and security and constituting offences that no nation should commit against another with whom it desires to be at peace, and

Whereas, The said Imperial German Government by sinking the American ship Frye; by later drowning the American citizen Leon H. Thresher, who at the time of his death was on board a British merchant vessel which was sunk without warning and without regard to the safety of its neutral passengers of whom the said Thresher was one; by wrecking without warning the American tankship Gulflight, which at the time of its destruction was flying the American flag; and by dropping bombs from an aeroplane upon the American ship Cushing, has shown its utter indifference to the safety of both the property and lives of non-combatants and neutrals and of citizens of the United States upon the high seas, and

Whereas, The President of the United States through proper diplomatic channels on February 10th, 1915, informed the said Imperial German Government that this Country would hold that Government to a strict accountability for any violation of neutral rights, and
